Tardiness is a disruption of a good learning environment and is to be discouraged. Tardiness without legitimate reason on two occasions during any stage will be considered as one unexcused absence. Tardiness is defined as arriving 10 minutes or more after the scheduled start of class.

Interruption for Unsatisfactory Attendance. Students who have not maintained the required minimum attendance average of 80 percent will be placed on probation for the next stage. If the student does not improve the attendance average to the required minimum by the end of the probationary period, the student will be terminated from the training program. VA will be notified accordingly. VA benefits will be discontinued when the Veteran or eligible person ceases to make satisfactory progress.

Cutting class is defined as missing any portion of a scheduled class day. Cutting of class will be considered an unexcused absence unless it is pre-approved and meets the criteria for an excused absence outlined above.

Animal Behavior College is not responsible for any lost, stolen or damage to student property. Students agree not to hold Animal Behavior College responsible for such.

Service Animal Policy

The following is added to the Student Conduct Guidelines located on page 53 of the Catalog:

No dogs or other animals are allowed in the classroom, on school grounds, or any outside classroom location associated with this program, with the exception of official Service Animals. The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) delineates requirements for an animal to be considered a "service animal" and limits them to animals who can do work or tasks for people with: •PTSD •Seizures•Wheelchairs•Visual or auditory impairment (e.g., blind or deaf). A service animal must be individually trained to perform work or tasks directly related to the handler's disability. An animal is not a service animal if its mere presence benefits the individual with a disability. A service animal must be trained to respond to the individual's needs. The process must have two steps: recognition and response. For example, if a service animal senses that a person is about to have a psychiatric episode and it is trained to respond, for example by nudging, barking, or removing the individual to a safe location until the episode subsides, then the animal has indeed performed a task or done work on behalf of the individual with the disability.

A therapy and/or emotional support animal does not qualify as a service animal. Emotional support animals may provide comfort to a person with a psychiatric disability but are not trained to perform specific tasks to assist them. Emotional support animals are not covered under laws that apply specifically to service animals. Therapy and emotional support animals are allowed in housing under the Fair Housing Act (FHA), but are not permitted access in public places in the same fashion as service animals and are not permitted in the classroom, on school grounds, or any outside classroom location associated with this program. Misrepresenting yourself as an owner or trainer of a trained service animal is a misdemeanor punishable by up to six months imprisonment and/or up to a $1,000 fine.

Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP)

The following replaces Satisfactory Academic Progress (SA) on page 55 of the Catalog:

Satisfactory Academic Progress is monitored upon the submission of each stage exam during a student's program of study. The Dog Obedience Program has 11 stages which means satisfactory academic progress is monitored 11 times for this program. In order to maintain SAP, a student must:

- Maintain satisfactory attendance
- Submit Stage exams for grading on or before due date
- Maintain a minimum grade of 70% in each stage
- Satisfy the probation requirements defined in ABC probation conditions, if on probation.

Failure to maintain Satisfactory Academic Progress will result in probation. Continued failure to maintain SAP will result in termination from the program. In order to graduate, the student must complete the program within a time period, which cannot exceed a maximum of one and half times the established program length.

Conditions for Interruption for Unsatisfactory Progress/Dismissal Policy

The following is in addition to Probation Conditions and Termination on page 55 and 56 of the Catalog:

A student will be placed on probation if they do not meet the requirements for Satisfactory Academic Progress. Probation will be for no longer than thirty (30) days. Students placed on probation will receive special instructions by an Animal Behavior College designee. If by the end of this period the probation conditions are met, then the probation will be lifted. If by the end of this period the probation conditions are not met, then the student will be terminated from the program. VA will be notified accordingly. VA benefits will be discontinued when the Veteran or eligible person ceases to make satisfactory progress.
